Lead Strategic Transformation

Duration: 4 days
Location: Online, delivered live

Units:
BSBLDR811 Lead strategic transformation

The aim of the Lead Strategic Transformation unit is to prepare students to become professional organisational leaders who will accept leadership responsibility and make significant contributions toward the sustained success of their organisations.

The unit is both philosophical and practical in nature. Students are invited to reflect deeply on their own leadership formation and engage critically with the academic leadership literature to inform their ongoing leadership development and leadership practice.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- define the difference between professional leadership and amateur leadership, and lead as a professional leader
- confidently address the complex dimensions of leadership including Character, Competence, Context, Choice, and Critical Reflection
- knowledgeably analyse and navigate complex organisational environments
- confidently engage and coach others in collaborative leadership practices.

Lead and Manage Organisational Change

Duration: 4 days
Location: Online, delivered live

Units:
BSBLDR601 Lead and manage organisational change

Today, teams and organisations face rapid change like never before. Globalisation has increased the markets and opportunities for more growth and revenue. The global pandemic has resulted in the world witnessing huge upheaval and change across all sectors.

We all live in a time when organisations face a need for change as a result of what is better described as a raging torrent than a flow. Accepting change as the new norm is not enough. Along with acceptance must come the determination to ensure that employees are able to adapt continually so businesses can meet these changes.

The aim of this programme is to develop Management and Leadership skills to help individuals, teams and organisations succeed in managing change.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- define change
- evaluate and apply change models and theories to change processes
- identify drivers of change
- analyse and manage key stakeholders
- identify and develop strategies to deal with resistance to change
- develop a change plan.

Manage Financial Performance

Duration: 4 days
Location: Online, delivered live

Units:
AMPMG801 Manage financial performance

Leaders in business often need to forecast future financial resource needs, analyse the current asset performance, and set business and financial targets.

As a senior manager, you'll be called upon to manage compliance factors and financial risk, as well as plan, budget, report, forecast, and more.

You'll learn how to source financial data, liaise, and negotiate with stakeholders, create financial management systems, manage costs, and be able to change track when unforeseen events occur.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- prepare a financial resource plan or budget
- monitor and manage financial resources over a full planning cycle
- effectively communicate financial reports and operational execution
- apply adjustments to changing circumstances and respond to unusual situations
- apply relevant legislation.
