Swinburne’s work-integrated learning programs:

In addition to Swinburne ranking in the 2015 QS Top 100 Under 50 and as one of the world’s top 400 universities by the prestigious 2015 Academic Ranking of World Universities, in 2016 Swinburne was ranked in the QS Graduate Employability Rankings, which recognises universities with world-class graduate employability.

Working with our students

Every year, hundreds of organisations across Australia benefit from the talent and skills that our students bring into their workplace.

How your organisation benefits

By inviting a student to undertake a placement in your organisation, you will:

- Access the talent and skills of enthusiastic students
- Provide a student with a valuable learning experience
- Discover graduate talent before your competitors
- Grow your network and promote your business as a great place to work
- Give your staff an opportunity to develop leadership and mentoring skills
- Drive your Corporate Social Responsibility Agenda

“We continuously look to challenge our students and find that they actively respond to that challenge. I’ve seen new graduates join the firm, and progress into really senior roles—that is hugely satisfying.”

Luke Eason, Partner, KPMG
Placement and internship options

Professional Placements
Full-time placements of 6 or 12-month duration. Aside from being a valuable learning opportunity for students, placements offer you a great way to get support for long-term projects, give busy staff members extra support, or help your organisation during high activity and growth.

Professional Internships
Part-time, typically unpaid placements (around two days a week) for 12 weeks. They are an ideal way to tackle a short-term project, giving you additional support and skills for a fixed-term duration. Professional Internships may also be offered in intensive mode (e.g. full-time) during semester breaks.

We’re always impressed with the calibre of students. The program helps us to find potential employees to support our team and enable us to do more work. That’s why our firm has been hosting Swinburne students for almost 25 years now!
