GOCPCW801 Provide coaching in the workplace

This unit is a core building block of this qualification and develops the skills that are central to providing coaching in the workplace.

Designed specifically to address the International Coaching Federation (ICF) competency standards, you will learn the difference between coaching, consulting and mentoring, and how to design coaching sessions.

Participants will also learn how to establish trust, manage progress and accountability, overcome resistance, and lead focus sessions for success.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- design actions and manage planning and goal setting
- establish a coaching presence, ask powerful questions, and actively listen
- create awareness, give feedback and empower clients with a belief in coaching
- use a range of tools to identify individual characteristics, strengths, and behavioural preferences at work
- successfully respond to change resistance.

Evaluate Coaching Needs and Interventions

Duration: 4 days

Location: Online, delivered live

Units:

GOCENI802 Evaluate coaching needs and interventions

Professional coaches need to be able to quickly and accurately assess the coaching needs within both an organisation and the individuals that make up the workforce.

In addition, they need to be able to create the coaching programs and interventions to resolve this and evaluate them to ensure they're delivering results.

This unit develops these skills, ensuring participating coaches can approach their roles with confidence and work to an international standard as defined by the International Coaching Federation.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- identify, and work to, professional coaching practices and standards
- determine the coaching needs for both an organisation and a worker
- establish the coaching agreement and evaluate the coaching outcomes based on the parameters set in the agreement
- use advanced coaching skills, practices, and tools.

Apply Professional Coaching Practices

Duration: 4 days
Location: Online, delivered live

Units:
GOCAPC801 Apply professional coaching practices

This unit is focused on teaching coaches how to establish truly collaborative partnerships with their clients and supporting their developmental needs, as they build capability and enhance their performance.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- build their clients' self-awareness by using a range of theoretical and evidence-based models, external sources, and structured input.
- apply evidence-based models, tools, and techniques to improve their clients' effectiveness and innovation.
- establish their clients' expectations and goals, with built-in measures for success, ensuring they align with both the client and the organisation.
- maintain an open and fluent communication with their client, listen deeply, and apply a wide range of questions to facilitate insight and identify hidden assumptions, blindspots, and biases.
- empower clients to develop their awareness of their current level of performance, and how this performance fits into the current organisational needs.
- facilitate their clients' awareness of their thought patterns, actions, and feelings as they affect performance at work.
- challenge and motivate their clients to achieve their goals.

Lead Strategic Transformation

Duration: 4 days
Location: Online, delivered live

Units:
BSBLDR811 Lead strategic transformation

Leaders must be able to respond strategically, acting as transformational agents in response to multiple drivers for change.

They seek to improve competitive advantage through transformation of individual, team, and operational capabilities.

This unit explores your own leadership and coaching style and how you apply it to others. You will also learn transformational and collaborative practices, and strategic leadership.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- reflect on their own leadership style and evolve
- lead transformation by example
- model and cultivate collaborative thinking
- provide strategic leadership during times of dynamic change.
