Why lead auditing skills are critical

Many industries - such as construction, manufacturing, and healthcare - have stringent compliance, quality, and safety standards that must be met.

These standards change all the time. Conducting regular audits ensures that your organisation is always complying with these industry, state, and federal requirements.

To meet this need, audit training is essential in today's workplace.

This course teaches techniques and methodologies to effectively audit a quality management system.

Participants gain on-the-spot skills that include the ability to initiate, participate, lead and report on a quality audit, and implement continuous improvement.

This qualification develops the skills to:

- initiate quality audits

- participate in quality audits
- lead quality audits
- report on quality audits
- create a culture of continuous improvement in both your work and the work of the broader team.

Course inclusions

- access to industry experts who facilitate the workshops
- program materials and manuals are used in the workshops, which double as a take-home resource.
- templates, tools, and many other resources are provided

Who should attend?

This course is suitable for:

- those currently working as quality practitioners
- practitioners who are seeking to be involved in internal quality assurance audits and second- or third-party audits
- recently promoted managers

with some existing management experience who need to develop their auditing skill set

Stand out

This highly prestigious coaching qualification:

- focuses on real world, relevant global contexts
- is a practical program with projects and assignments you can integrate into your existing role or organisation
- gives you skills and tools you can use immediately
- encourages you to think differently
- delivers a truly end-to-end audit skill set

Duration: 1 day
Location: Face-to-face, Hawthorn

Units:
BSBAUD411 Participate in quality audits

This workshop teaches participants how to prepare for, and participate in, a quality audit as a member of an audit team.

You'll learn the various audit processes including reviewing designated documentation; identifying and developing checklists and audit related documentation; preparing audit schedules; gathering, analysing, and evaluating information; and reporting findings to the lead auditor.

You'll gain an additional layer of knowledge that will allow you to analyse and evaluate information, assess findings, and participate in an exit meeting, ensuring the audit is closed out professionally.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- review audit documentation
- participate in the development of audit schedules
- gather, analyse, and evaluate data and information
- report findings
- participate in exit meetings

Initiate quality audits

Duration: 1 day
Location: Face-to-face, Hawthorn

Units:
BSBAUD511 Initiate quality audit

As a lead auditor, you need to know how to commence work on a quality audit project with an audit team.

This unit covers conducting entry and exit meetings; identifying and gathering relevant information; managing audit team resources; and providing feedback to audit team members on their performance.

The types of quality audit that will be covered by this unit includes either external or internal systems audits, process audits, or product/service audits.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- determine the scope and objectives of the quality audit with the auditee, client, and other stakeholders
- identify the relevant standards and compliance factors of the audit, as well as the identified risks
- communicate effectively with the auditee and other key stakeholders
- identify and brief the resources needed to conduct the quality audit, prepare the audit team, and review the auditee documentation
- prepare checklists, timelines, and documentation

Lead quality audits

Duration: 1 day
Location: Face-to-face, Hawthorn

Units:
BSBAUD512 Lead quality audits

This is a key workshop in this program.

As participants lead their quality audits, they need to have a well-established theoretical knowledge base of quality auditing.

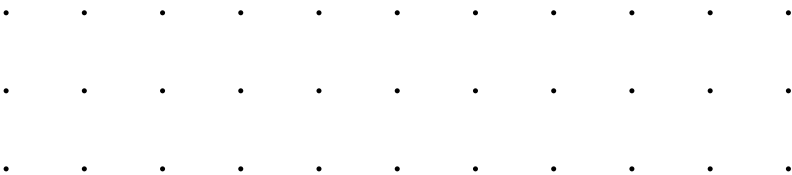

Participants also need to be proficient in using a wide range of specialised quality auditing and managerial techniques to carry out their own work and to supervise the quality of the audit team.

You will be able to set meetings and agendas, source data and information, monitor processes, manage resources and budgets, and mentor team members to perform at the top of their game.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- conduct a wide range of meetings, from entry and exit meetings to work-in-progress meetings
- seek out and obtain data sets and information
- manage the resources of the audit team, including activities and personnel
- guide team members to continuously improve their performance
- communicate with key stakeholders and team members in an engaging and effective way

Cluster overview

Report on quality audits

Duration: 1 day

Location: Face-to-face, Hawthorn

Units:

BSBAUD513 Report on quality audits

It's one thing to get an audit in the door. It's quite another to review the audit to ensure it contains the information you need, meets the criteria, and has clear recommendations.

Further, you need to be able to analyse the audit content, get it ready for internal stakeholder consumption, present and communicate the findings, and take the next corrective steps.

In this workshop, you will learn the key processes and frameworks that allow you to compile audit results, prepare reports, and handle all follow-ups.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- compile the audit results against objectives and criteria and analyse the outcomes
- empower team members to grow, take responsibility for their own work, and support each other
- deliver evidence of any non-conformance within the report
- produce and present the final audit report to key stakeholders
- negotiate the follow-up process with the auditee, including corrective actions and potential improvements
- manage timelines, actions, and follow-up for any corrective actions
- evaluate the audit report against objectives and investigate potential improvements in audit methods, efficiency, and cost

Facilitate continuous improvement

Duration: 1 day

Location: Face-to-face, Hawthorn

Units:

BSBST502 Facilitate continuous improvement

Nothing in the business world can stand still for long. As audiences and business environments rapidly evolve, strong team leadership is needed to ensure the workforce is engaged and motivated for continuous improvement.

This workshop will teach you how to develop strategies to encourage team members as they participate in decisionmaking, assume responsibility, and exercise initiative to drive continuous improvement.

You will learn how to lead by example, establish systems, communicate, mentor and coach, and share business outcomes.

You will also be able to monitor your performance strategies and identify opportunities for further improvement.

Learning objectives

Participants will be able to:

- lead and manage processes and systems that drive continuous improvement
- communicate effectively across the team as well as influence stakeholders
- lead the team on its continuous improvement journey
- monitor and adjust performance strategies
- identify and manage opportunities for further improvement
