Course snapshot

Duration	Campus	Intakes
3 years full-time	Hawthorn and online	Semester 1 (March) Semester 2 (August)

The Bachelor of Criminal Justice and Criminology is the first degree of its type in Victoria, focusing on both the causes of crime (criminology) and the fallout of crime (criminal justice).

You'll learn about local and global criminality, traditional approaches and responses to crime, and emerging trends and practices. You'll examine the international dimensions of criminal justice as well as the technological advances that impact the sector.

By the time you graduate, you'll have gained skills and knowledge in predicting the commission of crime, detecting and stopping criminal behaviour, and implementing effective and efficient criminal sanctions and rehabilitation of offenders.

Your future career

Graduates will advance possible future careers in state and federal policing, youth justice, adult corrections, investigators and support personnel at various government institutions dealing with corruption, financial crimes and money-laundering, case management at community corrections, police prosecutions, border control and immigration and intelligence agencies. A wide choice of co-majors are available to further tailor your degree for future careers in victim support, community engagement and domestic and international policy analysis.

Skye
Bachelor of Criminal Justice and Criminology

“My number one piece of advice is to grab every opportunity that is presented to you, no matter how small. I completed an internship with IBAC (Independent Broad-Based Anti-Corruption Commission). While this was daunting in the beginning, I have gained experiencing in working in the field of corruption, investigation and managing complaints about police misconduct. This experience was so valuable in preparing me for post-university working life. As a result of my internship, I gained part time employment for my final year of study, leading to a full-time position after that.”
