Portfolio guidelines

If you are required to submit a portfolio, the contents and layout of the portfolio should be considered carefully. The aim of the portfolio is to show depth and breadth of your skills, capabilities and knowledge in design. A portfolio is very much like a visual résumé, which highlights key projects and major outcomes.

Portfolio format:

The portfolio should consist of one PDF file with no more than 8 pages that highlight projects, skills and capabilities. If you wish to submit multimedia, animations or movies, you should provide links from the PDF file.

Please consider the following:

- The portfolio must be in landscape format
- Include an introductory slide with your name and contact details, and for which course you are applying
- Folios are evaluated on laptop screens so please compose your layout and font sizes with that in mind
- Include work that demonstrates your design experience at a range of scales
- Include work that demonstrates your 3D spatial thinking through physical models and/or digital models
- Demonstrate your conceptual thinking and ability to communicate ideas concisely through diagrams and clearly labelled drawings
- Show your ability to meet technical and software skills relevant to your chosen area of discipline specialisation.
- If including work done in professional practice, name the practice and clearly identify your role in the project (eg. 2D drafting, rendering etc.)
- Clearly label projects with the project name, your academic level when the project was produced (eg. My third undergraduate studio), your role in the project (when including group work)
